

• EST 1949 • GREENFIELDS MERINO & POLL MERINO STUD

Greenfields Merino and Poll Merino Stud prides itself on breeding rams highly-sought for their bright, well-nourished, stylish wool and plain big-framed body.

The stud is proud to present progeny from Collinsville 'Masterbuilt 252', purchased by Greenfields in 2021 for $58,000 at the Collinsville on-property sale.

The exceptional ram's offspring are already proving to be early-maturing with good width and depth of body. True to the Greenfields reputation, they are showing excellent conformation, are good on their feet being well-balanced, with soft, pure muzzles and bright, long-stapled, white wool.

These large, plain-bodied, dual-purpose rams are showing outstanding potential, with excellent structure and good width through the chest and hindquarter.

Greenfields Merino and Poll Merino Stud, based at Booborowie and Hallett in South Australia's Mid North, has built a reputation for exceptional quality rams and its repeat buyer base tells the story of consistent, true-to-type rams.

Robert and James Sullivan, along with father Jim, and their families, pride themselves on continuously striving to breed rams with superior genetics and offering outstanding client support with classing, ram selection, flock management and general breeding advice.

The Greenfields Merino and Poll Merino Stud focus on improving genetics is proven through its results, with the Stud's recent flock profile tests putting it in the Top 5 to 10 per cent of flocks for yearling clean fleece weight, post weaning and yearling weight.

It reinforces the Sullivan family's belief that good visual classing is reflected in genetic results, with added benefits of the stud focus on structure and conformation.

Greenfields Merino Stud was founded in 1949 on Ashrose bloodlines, which has continued, along with the purchase of stud Merino rams and semen from Collinsville.

The Poll Merino Stud was founded in 1957, from the Collinsville bloodline.

Together the Greenfields Merino and Poll Merino Stud has built a solid reputation for consistently producing high-quality rams, which the Sullivan family are proud to offer to their clients across Australia.

The Kempe family have been sourcing their genetics from Greenfields for five decades. The large frames, sound constitutions and heavy cutters of bright white wool is why we keep coming back to Greenfields. The sheep are highly fertile, we are consistently achieving lambing percentages between 120 per cent and 130 per cent, depending on the season. Our surplus ewes and wether lambs are highly sought after in local markets.” - Kempe family, Culburra.

“We have been Greenfields clients for over 25 years and during this period we have seen improvements in our structure and constitution throughout our commercial flock. The Sullivan family have been readily available to give advice when asked about what is best suited for us. The Greenfields team are a major asset to the Australian Merino sheep industry.” - Craig and Petrea Honan, North Benalla Proprietors, Hallett.

“We have been purchasing rams through Greenfields Stud owned by the Sullivan family for 31 years. We purchase a mixture of both poll and horned rams which are of large frame and strong constitution with high-yielding wool with a defined crimp and soft handling characteristics. The rams are well-covered with no open backs, which suit our marginal country in both Ceduna and pastoral land in the Gawler Ranges. The large frame sees our sheep yield well at the meat market and ewes have good maternal instincts. We receive excellent after-sale support from the Sullivan family with assistance each year classing ewe hoggets, which includes selection of elite breeding ewes for our own ram breeding program for the station.” - Burge family, Yarrah Nominees – Ceduna & Gawler Ranges.

“We run a mixed cropping enterprise alongside a Merino and Poll Merino Stud. In 2015 we found Greenfields Stud while at the Royal Adelaide show. We took a liking to their largely framed rams, big barrelled with white stylish stud wool. Since purchasing from Greenfields we have achieved many attributes studs look for like heavy wool cutting, white crispy wool and increasing lambing percentages” - Brenton Stratford, Secret Rocks Merino and Poll Merino Stud, Ungarra.
